

Which material is best for battery housings?

Life cycle assessments show that steel is the most sustainable material for battery housings. Up to two thirds less greenhouse gas emissions arise in the production of a steel battery housing compared with an aluminum design. During use, the carbon footprints of steel and aluminum battery housings are virtually identical.

What is a selectrify ® battery housing?

The selectrify ® battery housing is a newly developed steel design offering excellent performance. It consists of an enclosure with a frame, connection profile, upper and lower support arms, under-ride guard and cover. It is available in a wide range of patented designs and is almost weight-neutral compared with aluminum.

When was the first battery enclosure made?

Our first battery enclosure was produced in Europe in 2011 for a hybrid electric vehicle. Magna provides a comprehensive range of battery enclosure production and engineering solutions, available in steel, aluminum, and innovative one-piece designs.

What is a battery housing?

The battery housing is the central safety component that must meet the highest standards in terms of sealing, electrical conductivity, mechanical strength, and much more. It essentially consists of a battery lid / cap and a battery can - including the critical interface between these two components.
